Chase Publishing is not only a publisher of high quality magazines, but also a multi functional media company.

What we are able to do is look at what our company can do for your company, by way of taking care of your press initiatives.

COMMUNICATION SERVICES

Throughout the year you will have various messages and announcements you want to communicate, not only to the English speaking demographic, but also to the international press. Whether it be a company report, a story/Development within your organization, you will want your message to be put across in the most concise and constructive way. We have a team of journalists that can arrange to put your press releases together, thus allowing us to act as your PR agency.

BRAND DEVELOPMENT

Sometimes our clients want us to help them become more popular than they already are by raising awareness of their brand or changing their reputation. Sometimes they want to make their fortune by selling more products and services. Increasingly they're looking for us to help them do both.

We offer a service that would take care of your press related needs, and also send your company information out to the national press via email blasts, newsroom blasts, and twitter blasts. This would include our journalists and editorial team writing your articles and press releases for you.

CREATIVE SOLUTIONS

Effectively we would take away the stress of having to deal with your own written communications. You would tell us in a round about way what message you want to achieve, and we would do the rest.

We also offer graphic design services and video production too. All sizes of projects are catered for.
